Description:

This video installation features three vertiginous top down scenes of clouds, snow and sea foam. They surround us like a hypnagogic vision; typical of the moment when one falls into the fields of dreams and unconsciousness.

The continuous movement of absorption within these virtual scenes of sinking, landslide and aerial crossing takes us into an abysmal course.

This installation, a presentation of both the nightmarish fall through the elements and a suspended moment of contemplation, was primarily designed for the space of a chapel. The work plays with fundamental antonyms, such as up and down, drop and rise, finite and infinite, light and dark ...
